

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

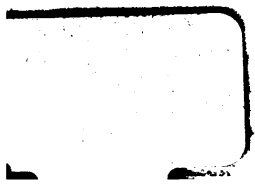

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE

The territory west of the Rocky Mountains known as the Pacific Coast is still in the early stages of its making. It is only a few years since population has grown to any considerable extent. The people who are settling in these states today are making history just as those hardy pioneers who fought their way over deserts and mountains and plains made it fifty years ago in the face of tremendous obstacles conquering them as they arose.

During the last few years laws have been placed upon the statute books in the Western States that have attracted and won the admiration of the world. The cause of humanity has fared better in the West than in any other part of the globe. Civilization has made greater strides. It has been the history of the human race that the pioneers have been the reformers, and it is natural that the Pacific Coast should be looked to to produce America's greatest men.

The reading of the lives of great men has ever been stimulating to patriotism—their deeds the most powerful factor in cheering and inspiring the rising generations. With such a record of achievement in the last two decades that the men and women of the Pacific Coast can boast, it is indeed worth while that their histories be permanently recorded.

It has been the policy of the compilers of WHO'S WHO ON THE PACIFIC COAST—a policy that has been closely adhered to—to include in it sketches of none but those men and women who are at the helm in the affairs of this section of the country; the leaders of life and thought,—the great architects, the conquering engineers, the captains of finance and industry, the men of the bar who have enlightened the nation with their erudition and wisdom, and the foremost men of medicine, letters, science and art.

As educators, they occupy places second to none; as composers, artists, authors and poets, their fame has gone broadcast; as builders of cities, they have set a new pace in architecture; as statesmen, they have attained great prominence; as men of medicine, they have contributed to the advancement of science, and as merchants, they have illumined the marts of trade.

Book 27 History

The book contains more than three thousand seven hundred sketches. Of the five thousand who responded to requests for data, it was found that about twelve hundred displayed no distinguishing features that entitled them to a place in its pages. It was the rule to include only those who are representative of the communities in which they live, or who had especially distinguished themselves in their occupations or professions.

As presented, this volume contains a greater number of living notables of the West than anything of the kind heretofore issued. It is not possible, however, in a work of this nature to include in it at the beginning all who are entitled to recognition. It is not claimed, therefore, that the work is complete in this first issue. In future biennial editions a more thorough canvass for eligible names will be made and any suggestions of names or methods whereby the book may be improved will be appreciated.

Abbreviations which have been used are intended to be self-explanatory. None of them have been carried to extremes, so that the reader will not be aggravated and annoyed by having to translate the sketches by reference to an index.

(She died in 1910.) Children: Paul, Griffing, Philip and Lucy. Formed habits of hard work early in life, and in 1848, entered employ of a Buffalo, N. Y., book store; four years later, he was sent by his employer to establish a publishing house in California, in which enterprise he was eminently successful, the business becoming the largest west of Chicago. While so engaged, his attention was turned to the rapid changes going on about him and the wealth of historical material which was wasted and lost, and without any thought of its utilization, this he began to gather and store. This work was continued for over forty years. Europe and America were searched, every capital in both countries several times visited, purchases made and archives copied. The entire Pacific Coast was carefully exploited and narratives taken from the mouths of hundreds of living witnesses. In 1861, with a library of 16,000 books, maps and manuscripts (afterwards increased to 60,000, when in 1905, it passed to the Univ. of Cal.), Mr. Bancroft began the work of collaboration, sorting, sifting, and classifying, which work occupied about twenty men for thirty-five years, as fresh material was constantly coming in. All this time, all over the ground covered by his work, which was from Alaska to Panama west of the Rocky Mountains, his assistants were at work copying archives and taking dictation; Mr. Bancroft meanwhile being engaged in writing his history, which was divided into sections, each complete in itself, and the whole comprising: "Native Races of the Pacific States," 5 vols.; "History of Central America," 3 vols.; "History of Mexico," 6 vols.; "North Mexican States and Texas," 2 vols.; "Arizona and New Mexico," 1 vol.; "Colorado and Wyoming," 1 vol.; "Utah and Nevada," 1 vol.; "Northwest Coast," 2 vols.; "Oregon," 2 vols.; "Washington, Idaho and Montana," 1 vol.; "British Columbia," 1 vol.; "California Pastoral," 1 vol.; "California Inter Pocola," 1 vol.; "Popular Tribunals," 2 vols.; "Essays and Miscellany," 1 vol.; "Literary Industries,"

1 vol. Other works are "The Book of the Fair," "The Book of Wealth," "Resources of Mexico," "The New Pacific," "Retrospection," etc. His work has impressed itself upon the literature of the world, being the original source for all the information given; it is probably the most extensive literary work ever undertaken by a single individual, and it gives to each of the Pacific States and nations a more complete history of its early affairs than is enjoyed by any other country. Address: 2398 Jackson st., San Francisco, Cal.

Married, Romilda Bottos, Sept 12, 1872, at Chiavari, Liguria, Italy. His father, a farmer, took him to New York when he was 4 years old. At the age of 10, he commenced peddling toys on New York ferry boats. At 12, he went to California, and was employed as a clerk in a grocery store. After few years of great attention and activity in business, he was given a fourth interest in the firm. Later on he became sole proprietor of the institution, in which he was successful for 30 years, when he sold the business. In 1875, he entered into the management and became Secretary of five Mutual Building and Loan Associations in San Francisco. In 30 years, he received from members of these meritorious institutions, $6,500,000.—principally from wage earners, which served to build for those having families, 2,500 homes, costing $5,000,000,—and the non-borrowers received $1,500,000 in cash, with a good rate of interest on their deposits, which served in many instances as foundations for their future fortunes. In 1881, he organized on the co-operative plan, the Italian-Swiss Agricultural Colony, purchased 1,500 acres of land, which then supported two Englishmen and 500 sheep, and now gives profitable employment to over 2,000 families. He set out the first wine grapes of fine qualities from France and Italy in California, which have produced as fine wine as the best produced in Europe, and lately the Colony has been making, with the assistance of a French expert, the identical Champagne which is produced at Rheims, France. The wines and the champagne of the Colony received the "Grande Prix" at the International Exposition at Turin, Italy, in 1911. The total amount paid in by the colonists is $160,000 (the net assets of the Colony are now, 1912, $2,000,000), which has been paying a regular dividend of 6% per annum on $1,500,000 for over ten years. In 1899, he organized the Italian-American Bank, of which he was elected President, with paid up capital of $250,000,—since increased to $750,000, and has now assets amounting to over $5,000,000. On July 7, 1904, he was Knighted by the King of Italy. In 1906, he received the only gold medal given to any person in the United States offered by the International Exposition of Milano to Italian-born persons who had been most useful to the country of their adoption. Served ten years as President of the Manufacturers and Producers Assn. of California, and several years as President of the California Promotion Committee. Has written several books on true temperance, showing that the only way to remove the evil of drunkenness is to educate the people to use wine at their meals. Now President, Italian-American Bank; Secy. and Founder, Italian-Swiss Colony, also of five Mutual Loan Assns. Founder, in 1870, and only remaining charter member, of the Masonic Lodge "Speranza Italiana," working in Italian language. Father of five children, three boys, Alfred E., Romola A., and Remo E., employed in the bank with him, and two married daughters, Mrs. Aida Sartori, and Mrs. Romilda Musto, all born and living in San Francisco. Res.: Corner Washington and Walnut sts.; Office: Corner Montgomery and Sacramento sts., San Francisco, Cal.
